Art Unit: 1751

1. This action is responsive to the amendment filed on September 2, 2003.
2. The objection to claim 1 is withdrawn in view of applicants' amendment.
3. The cancellation of claim 30 is acknowledged. Claims 1, 16-29 and 31-32 are pending.
4. The rejection of claims 1, 16-29 under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schmidt (EP 0,799,886) in view of Davidson (US Patent No. 3,951,821) is withdrawn in view of applicants' amendment.
5. Claims 1, 16-29, 31-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schmidt in view of Davidson as applied to the above claims, and further in view of Gladfelter et al. (WO 92/20774), hereinafter "Gladfelter" for the reasons set forth in the office action in paper number 9.

Response to Applicants' Arguments

6. Applicants' arguments filed September 2, 2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

With respect to the rejection based upon Schmidt in view of Davidson and further in view of Gladfelter, Applicants argue that Gladfelter fails to specifically disclose the compression pressure of the first and second phases and the dissolution of the phases of the tablet, however, Applicants submit that whether Gladfelter teaches or discloses the compression pressure for the two separate components (e.g. the bar and the insert) is not the critical issue, rather it is one component that is compressed into the other such that an adhesion between the two components exists.

The Examiner respectfully disagrees with the above arguments because Schmidt, the primary reference, already teaches the tabletting pressures at page 9, lines 27-28. And Gladfelter, at page 7, lines 27-29, teaches that compressed solids include solids formed by processes like tabletting known to those of skill in the art. Hence, the required compression pressure is suggested by the prior art of record. With respect to the adhesion between the two components, the reasons below apply here as well.

Applicants also argue that Gladfelter fails to teach two or more products and/or phases that are compressed and/or adhesively, physically or chemically, combined together to form a physical single end product. Applicants also argue that Gladfelter discloses making two, separate, discrete compositions that are in the form such that the two composition can be interlocked, like a puzzle such that a substantially continuous surface is formed, which Applicants submit that however close the two pieces come to one another upon interlocking, they do not become a physical single end product because they are not compressed together nor adhesively combined together.

Art Unit: 1751

The Examiner respectfully disagrees with the above arguments because on page 2, lines 25-32, Gladfelter teaches a solid chemical concentrate system of at least two cooperative shapes, the first shape is an inwardly curved bar and has an inner opening, the second shape is an insert which interlocks with the bar by fitting within the inner opening, and when used together, the bar and insert has at least one substantially continuous surface. On page 26, lines 31-34, Gladfelter also teaches that the component system may be dispensed as a single unit. The fitting of the insert within the inner opening of the bar would result in a single end product and such fitting would be equivalent to physical adhesion. Accordingly, the Examiner respectfully disagrees that the above rejection should be withdrawn.

7. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
